

King-Ray reminder

HW 2/25/77

In yesterday's deposition Robert A. Cazier testified that it was his and is the FBI's standard practice to "run a patch through the barrel to see if it (a rifle) was fired since it was last cleaned."

His notes re the .243 rifle do include this.

I do not recall that those on the .30-06 do.

Maybe they do.

Maybe not.

Check to see.

I recall no such testing of the so-called Oswald rifle.
